If you have ever returned an article to the store, you know that it is generally a simple, even if a bit's off, process. Most retail stores allow you to request a refund within a specific period of time, usually 30 or 60 days from purchase, while some may have a no-refund policy entirely. The situation becomes complicated when the shop in question is not around the corner. Online shopping giants, such as eBay or Amazon, have their procedures to request a refund, as well as many gaming platforms such as Origin Games, Steam or Blizzard. Regardless of your purchase preferences, you may always encounter problems with missing delivery parts, damaged items or delays. If you end up in one of these situations, you should know that the best way to contact the seller is through a letter of request for payment of refund. Refund request letter «Why is it important? A refund-request letter is imperative when you want to officially inform the trader that their product or service did not meet your expectations. The communication channels you can use depend on the company in question. You can try one of these methods to reach the seller and ask for a refund: visit the store in person contact them by phone Use a website Email returns your item to the store and ask for a refund If you are not satisfied with your purchase from a local retail store, the best thing to do is to go there personally. Most resellers have a return policy, allowing a 30 or 60 day time to return the item. The smart thing would be to return the unwanted item as soon as possible. Give resellers the opportunity to bring the product back to the store, and are less likely to ask additional questions. If you want to return the product because it is damaged or not working, the seller is obliged to refund the full price of your purchase. Of course, this will not happen if you have damaged the item by yourself. If you want to return it for any other reason... You don't like it, you bought the wrong product, you don't need it Still, you can get a full or partial refund, a store credit or a substitute. This depends on the store's refund policy, which they must present in a visible location...both on their website and in the store. The merchant does not have to give you a refund just because he changed his mind. Call the vendor You can call the vendor on the phone, but the process will vary from merchant to merchant: local stores usually have in-store phones Digital shopping platforms often have a customer service number on the support page of their website large corporations Have customer service lines, but every time you call, you can expect to be put in at tense. It is addressed to the merchant and should include the basic details on the transaction, the reason why reimbursement and repayment expectations are required. Index Purpose of this letter is to establish the main facts and formulate clear demands. It should indicate: what was purchased, How long? Because the refund period is required for the delivery of the refund If previous requests have been submitted, this letter may also indicate any future steps to take in case of non-refundable. How to apply for a refund Below are listed five (5) steps to get a refund for a service or a paid asset. Step 1 « Read the refundThe "end print" is important. Review the published dealer's refund policy to get a sense of the landscape. Not all traders have refund policies. A seller cannot claim only after the fact that a policy existed; even if one did, no matter if the terms were not clearly transmitted at the time of the transaction. If the trader does not have a formal return policy, then the state law most likely dictates consumer rights. But remember that even the strict "non-refund" policies are not necessarily applicable if the goods or services provided are defective, dangerous or otherwise non-like-publicity. Step 2 - Find the received documentation is fundamental. Do not despair if the original receipt was lost - if the purchase was made with credit or debit card, then a backup record should be accessible through the summary page of your bank online account. Step 3 - Detailed reasons for the Refund Explain why you are looking for a refund, but make sure your reason falls into the refund policy. Was the object or service not as described? The more objective and verifiable the problem, the better. Step 4 - Request for payment / payment Be specific in the request letter. Indicate the total amount required, the expiry for the issue of this refund, and how the refund must be provided. Make sure the trader receives the letter, and follow-up as necessary. Timing is all with refund requests - so first after the original transaction the refund request is made, the better. Step 5 - Other actions Unfortunately, some traders still refuse to give in. If a refund has not been issued within the specified deadline, then it may be time to take things to the next level. There are several ways to increase search for a refund: Fill out a consumer complaint with the State Attorney General's Office Contact the Better Business Bureau (BBB) or the local Chamber of Commerce Leave a negative review of the online merchant Look for damages in small claims court Sample - Refunds request Letter March 21, 2017 Dear Mark Hoffer, This letter serves as a formal request for a $99.99 refund - the total paid to your company, Squeaky Cleaners, for cleaning the house on March 3, 2017. Your company advertises a 100% satisfaction guarantee for customers, printed on the promotional postcard that has been sent to my home. Unfortunately, I was dissatisfied with the quality of the service. Your staff did not completely clean my bathroom on the first floor, and I found shoes marks on the floor of the kitchen and the dining room after your team left. Please refund this balance to your credit cardto make the initial payment by 1 April 2017. If I do not receive a full refund by this date, I will have no choice but to file a consumer complaint with the Attorney General's office. Sincerely, John Delacruz related forms Personal Property Request Letter à To request a return of personal property. Application for security storage - To request the release of a security deposit.
