In APA Style, an in-text citation tells the reader where you got any and all information that did not come from inside your own head. This is more obvious when you are directly quoting from a source, but it is also needed when you have summarized or paraphrased from a source and even if you got an idea from somewhere else. In order to avoid plagiarism, it is extremely important that you cite all the words and ideas that you got from somewhere else. To learn more about plagiarism and how to avoid it, see Ethically Use Sources and Plagiarism guidance from APA. When citing sources in an APA Style paper, APA uses the author-date citation system. In this system, the writer includes the author and date within the body of the paper and includes a corresponding reference in the reference list. This citation system allows the reader to identify sources used in the paper by reviewing the author and date within the text of the paper, and then easily locate the corresponding reference in the alphabetical reference list. There are two types of in-text citations that are used within the body of an APA paper to help the reader locate the corresponding reference in the reference list. The two types of in-text citations are parenthetical citations and narrative citations. A narrative citation is a type of citation where the author’s name is used within the text of the sentence; whereas, a parenthetical citation is a type of citation where the author and date are in parentheses at the end of the sentence. How do I create narrative or parenthetical citations? In APA Style, cite your sources by putting the information about the source in parentheses at the end of a sentence or in the text of your paper as opposed to a footnote where the source information is at the bottom of the page or an endnote where it goes at the end of your paper. There are slight differences depending on which style you are using. Give the author’s last name and the publication year. Only use page numbers or paragraph numbers for a direct quote. Make sure the source information in parentheses matches with your reference in the reference list. The punctuation for the sentence goes AFTER the parentheses. For a quote less than forty words put quotation marks around the quoted words. For sources with designated page numbers - if the author and date are introduced in the sentence as a narrative citation, then add the page number in parentheses at the end of the quote. If the source does not have designated page numbers, then add the paragraph number, heading, or a combination of both the heading and paragraph number. If the author and date are not introduced as part of the text, then include the author and date with the page or paragraph number. The period should come after the parentheses. If your quote is more than forty words, set it off in a block text by beginning the block quote on a new line, indent 0.5 inches (one-half), and do not add quotation marks around the block quote. At the end of the quote put the period after the last word of the sentence followed by the parentheses. For more information, see Block Quote. Additional Resources For more information about parenthetical and narrative citations, see pages 253-278 of the APA Manual 7th edition for further explanation and examples. In October 2019, the American Psychological Association (APA) introduced the 7th edition of the APA Publication Manual, which replaces the 6th edition published in 2009. In that time a lot of things have changed. Citing online material has become more common, the use of inclusive and bias-free language is increasingly important, and the technology used by researchers and students has changed. The 7th edition addresses these changes by providing better and more extensive guidelines. This article outlines the biggest changes that you should know about. References and in-text citations in APA Style When it comes to citing sources, more guidelines have been added that make citing online sources easier and clearer. In total, 114 examples are provided, ranging from books and periodicals to audiovisuals and social media. For each reference category, an easy template is provided to help you understand and apply the citation guidelines. The biggest changes in the 7th edition are: The publisher location is no longer included in the reference. Covey, S. R. (2013). The 7 habits of highly effective people: Powerful lessons in personal change. New York, NY: Simon & Schuster. Covey, S. R. (2013). The 7 habits of highly effective people: Powerful lessons in personal change. Simon & Schuster. The APA in-text citation for works with three or more authors is now shortened right from the first citation. You only include the first author’s name and “et al.” (Taylor, Kotler, Johnson, & Parker, 2018) (Taylor et al., 2018) Surnames and initials for up to 20 authors (instead of 7) should be provided in the reference entry. Springer Nature. https://doi.org/10.1007/978-90-481-2473-2 Clear guidelines are provided for including contributors other than authors and editors. For example, when citing a podcast episode, the host of the episode should be included; for a TV series episode, the writer and director of that episode are cited. Dozens of examples are included for online source types such as podcast episodes, social media posts, and YouTube videos. The use of emojis and hashtags is also explained. Inclusive and bias-free language Writing inclusively and without bias is the new standard, and APA’s new publication manual contains a separate chapter on this topic. The guidelines provided by APA help authors reduce bias around topics such as gender, age, disability, racial and ethnic identity, and sexual orientation, as well as being sensitive to labels and describing individuals at the appropriate level of specificity. Some examples include: The singular “they” or “their” is endorsed as a gender-neutral pronoun. A researcher’s career depends on how often he or she is cited. A researcher’s career depends on how often they are cited. Instead of using adjectives as nouns to label groups of people, descriptive phrases are preferred. The poor People living in poverty Instead of broad categories, you should use exact age ranges that are more relevant and specific. People over 65 years old People in the age range of 65 to 75 years old APA Paper format In the 7th edition, APA decided to provide different paper format guidelines for professional and student papers. For both types, a sample paper is included. Some notable changes include: Increased flexibility regarding fonts: options include Calibri 11, Arial 11, Lucida Sans Unicode 10, Times New Roman 12, and Georgia 11. The running head on the title page no longer includes the words “Running head.”. It now contains only a page number and the (shortened) paper title. Running head: THE EFFECT OF GOOGLE ON THE INTERNET THE EFFECT OF GOOGLE ON THE INTERNET The running head is omitted in student papers (unless your instructor tells you otherwise). Heading levels 3-5 are updated to improve readability. Mechanics of style In terms of style, not much has changed in the 7th edition. In addition to some updated and better explained guidelines, there are two notable changes: Use only one space after a period at the end of a sentence. Use double quotation marks instead of italics to refer to linguistic examples. APA endorses the use of the singular pronoun they APA endorses the use of the singular pronoun “they” APA 7th edtion citation generator With Scribbr’s free citation generator you can easily cite your sources according to the new 7th edition guidelines.
